

Services

Unprotected information is vulnerable to accidental or malicious act, which may lead to risk of loss, damage or exposure to unauthorized eyes. To counter this, Magothy Technology, LLC. can offer you advice and consultancy on understanding and managing the risks to IT systems large and small - from network to laptop. With experience acquired over decades of working with customers on projects and problems, Magothy Technology, LLC. is well qualified to give you authoritative advice on assessing current and foreseeable risks.

Our flexible set of service offerings provides you with network expertise and information systems experts to assist and complement your existing staff or consultants. We review security configurations and suggest alternatives, review proposals, make presentations and lead your staff in discussions on commercial and government security issues from both local and global perspectives.

You benefit from an expert evaluation of your information assurance resources and vulnerabilities on which to base effective risk management and investment decisions.

INFORMATION ASSURANCE IS OUR BUSINESS BECAUSE SECURITY IS A BUSINESS ISSUE

Little information exists today that will not at one time or another be stored or transmitted electronically.

Information on paper as soon as it is faxed or input into a computer enters the electronic world. From here the information can be changed, deleted or broadcast to the world.

Electronic information must be readily available when needed and trusted to be accurate. Sometimes there are confidentiality concerns. Ensuring the confidentiality, availability and integrity of all electronically held information is the goal. "Information Assurance" is the term we use to describe this goal.

Through the use of appropriate security products and procedures we hope to achieve reasonable assurance that electronic information is adequately protected from unauthorized change or dissemination and ensure the information is always available.

Helping the owners of electronic information to determine the products and procedures to achieve Information Assurance is Magothy Tech's core competency.
